The President's Wish Readily Responded to by the Department Commanders - Orders Reassigning the Organization Given Out.

The veterans will act as an escort of honor to the President from the White House to the Capitol, on the morning of March 4, by the express direction of Mr. McKinley. The Secretary of War has conveyed the wish of the President to the Grand ...arshal, and has notified the vet erans of this action in a communication erains of this action in a communication addressed to General Sickles. General Greene and General Sickles were the guests of Secretary Root at luncheon yesterday at the Metropolitan Club. The conversation seems to have been the means to convey the desire of the President to General Greene that the veterans should be accorded what they demanded in the way of special distinction in the inaugural ceremoni s. Gener al Sickles stated after the luncheon that the Secretary of War had expressed the opinion that all of the army forces and State National Guard troops could be sent away without damaging materially th imaugural ceremonies, but that the yeterans could not be dispensed with, under any circumstances. General Sictles conone side to the discussion and that the side which he represented. Following the luncheon, communications as agreed upor were sent by the Secretary of War to General Sickles and General Greene, respectively. The letter to General Sickles

Angaroutty, by an agreement reached

Apparently, by an agreement reached at the luncheon, no communication was addressed by the Grand Marshal to General Sickles, atmounting his compliance with the President's wishes. General Sickles, later in the afternoon, sent the following letter to A. Koel Blakeman, Chief of Staff, tendering the services of the veteran organizations as the persons

A. Neel Blakeman, Chief of Staff;

I have the honor to state that the Hoa. Scaretary of War has informed me of the wish of his Excellency the President that the Union veterans of the civil war shall act as his personal execut from the Executive Mansion to the Capitol Building on the eccasion of the approaching inauguration. In compliance with the President's wish, I have conveved to the several veteran organizations a request that they should not in that enpacity.

In behalf of these organizations, I am authorized to tender their services as the President's personal escort on Monday sext, under my command, and I have the honor to await your orders. After a conference this afternoom with commanding officers of the several organizations, my belief is that between 1,259 and 1,500 veterans will report for dary. The probabilities are, in view of the latoness of the notice they will receive, that not more than 1,500 will parade.

THE INAUGURAL WEATHER.

Washington on Monday. A storm is coming, and according to careful observation, it is due to arrive in Washington on Monday, Inauguration Pay, unless it is intercepted and returned in its progress. To delay it, to counteract it, or change its course, is now the great aim and ambition of the authorities at the Weather Bureau. While they would not make an official statement inclement weather on March 4, it is a fact, nevertheless, that they are fearful. Chief Moore expects to be able to state with a reasonable degree of accuracy after the observations are made this morning jest what the atmospheric conditions will be on Inauguration Day. It is the practice of the bureau not to make forecasts for more than forty-eight hours ahead, as it cannot be done with any certainty for a greater period of time. The fact is that the great Storm King as marshaled his hosts far out in the Northwest, in British Columbia, north and west of Montana, and is marching them on in a southeasterly direction. Computing from the velocity with which storms travel at this season of the year, and considering the existing conditions, miess intercepted they are due to swoop lown upon the Capital of the Nation just at the time when Old Sol should be showthe case, Jupiter Pluvins will christen Mckinley with a downpour of rain, and haptize the legions here assembled with an unwelcome and untimely shower. Against all this there is, however, a very favorable condition which portends good weather for inauguration, and had the meteorologists of the Weather Buare indications of a gradual rise today and tonight through the Dakotas and Ne brasket. If this rise proves of sufficien magnitude it will be able to do battle magnitude it will be able to do battle with the oncoming storm as it advances affi to stay its prograss for a my at least. In that case on Monday the sun will shed its rediance over the nation's Capital Should the barometer fail outning remains to be done except the purchase of mackinteshes, umbrellas, and gum boots. There is nothing in the Mississippi and Ohio vailoys or the Lake regions which can combat and thwart the advance of the storm king.

INCOMING TRAINS LOADED

Great Crowds Arriving for the Inaugural Festivities.

The Facilities of the Various Rail. roads Severely Taxed - Prepara. tions for Taking Care of Visitors-No Accommodations at Hotels.

"The drival of visitors to attend the auguria celebration exceeds that of any previous inauguration for a score or more of years." This statement was made last night by a prominent railway official, one who has been connected with the railway passenger service in this city since the manguration of President Grant, and who has been assigned to the duty of handling the crowds expected at the Pennsylvania station.

During the early hours yesterday the incoming trains, although in double sections, indicated that the crowd would be very slim. About 5 o'clock, however, the excursion trains began to arrive, and and their friends that it was almost im-possible to get either in or out of the depot. It took the united force of several large and husky patrolmen to make a large and husky patroimen to make a pussage about two feet wide through which persons arriving might make their way to the street. This condition prevailed at the depot during the evening and until the arrival of the late trains from the East. A similar condition existed at the Baltimore and Ohio station.

The members of the Committee on Public Comfort had been complaining that they had nothing to do. This, however, was before 5 o'clock in the afternoon. From that time on they had no eause to warry. They had all they could do, but not more than they were willing to undertake. They were here, there, and everywhere. Should a stranger alight from a train and look out in a bewildered manner one of these red-ribboned gentlemen with "Committee of Public Comfort printed across the face of the badge would lumdediately espy him and enquire where he was to be located in the city for the next few days. If he did not know he was immediately tuken under the protecting wing of the committee and piloted to a boarding house by a uniformed messenger.

At the Sixth Street station those on duty were A. B. Coppes, Dr. F. F. Repetti, William J. McRae, M. J. Griffith, James Collins, Edward Voight, George F. Lewis. The Baltimore and Ohio contingent inpassage about two feet wide through guides and as escorts to those desiring lodgings. The members of the Committee on Public Comfort and the culets will remain on duty at the stations until late

The railway officials have now made trangements to handle the crowd with as much expedition as possible. The premorrow morning. The indications of a heavy traffic, however, compelled them to take action, so that yesterday afternoon both the Rahtmore and Ohio and the Pennsylvania Railway companies put a force of men at work at the two branch. vious arrangements were to establish the force of men at work at the two branch stations where all local trains will arrive and depart. At the Baltimore and Ohi and depart. At the Baltimore and Ohl outer station all incoming and outgoin Western trains are to make their termins. From these points also all organizations will leave the train and proceed the sounters arranged for them is the cit by their advance representatives. their forces in this city from outside sta-tions, several men having come from Phil-adelphia and several from Pittsburz. They will assist the local men in handling the increased business.

Near-by counties in Maryland and Vir-ginia are expected to send toto the city early sounday morning nearly their en-tir, population. The Southern has ar-ranged a most convenient schedule of trains on the Round Hill theiston, so that all the residents of Dun Loring, Fails Church, Waterloo, and other stations further along the route may reach Wash-ington in time for the essort to the Capital and leave almost whenever they choose.

Capitol and leave almost whenever they choose.

The Pennsylvania will run loc ils from fiahlimore as frequently as its flocia system will permit. Half of these specials will make stops at Odenton and ad other bodies this side of Aimapolis Johesium. Including Magruder's and Benning. The Chosapeake Beach Lyne will run several special trains across from the bay and transport all the residents of that wellon of Maryland. Both branches of the Baltimore and tuno will be taxed to their greatest capacity for specials during the moreting of bauguration bay the Baltimore are trunning through trains from Entimore every half hour or oftener.

From Gaithersburg and Rockville the local stops will be few, as the intermediate traille is reasonably well taken care of by the very early trains, and the towns are supplied by an electric railway service as well as the Baltimore and Ohio. Frederick, Point of Rocks, Furper's Ferry, and all other stations within half a day's reach on the Metropolitan Branch will be given two or three trailies Montay morning, each train being in two or three sections, of course. In all probability, half the visitors to the city will arrive on these problems of the smartly rates.

ability, half the visitors to the city will arrive on them early local excursions.

East of the Chie River it was possible to take advantage of the special rates and reach the Capital City last night. This is the explanation of the sudden influx after about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when both depots were crowded with the incoming visitors. Philadelphia sent a large delegation, and many points between here and that pince, and even as far west as Pittsburg, were well represented. Those residing in the Western States, and at far Eastern points, will legin to arrive early tonorrow morning, and will continue until late Monday. Among the organizations which are expected to arrive in the city early this morning will be two companies of the Naine State militia, and one company of light artillery. They were to arrive last night, but missed connections at New York. The Grave City College Cadets, of Pennsylvania, and the Findiay excursion, of Ohio, are also expected this morning.

While there are now several thousand strangers in the city, the grand rush will not begin until tomorrow. Last night, however, no stranger could secure quarters in any one of the hotels for a longer period than one night. Many of the hotels turned away guests. From tomorrow until after Monday accommodations cannot be secured at any of the pieblic hotels.

This will be the boys last visit to Wash-

at the Innugural Ball.

Admiral Dewey has written a letter to the Inaugural Committee declining to serve on the Reception Committee of the Inaugural Ball on account of ill health. He says his physician has forbidden him to leave the house for several days, and has ordered him to go South when able to do so. The Admiral has been suffering

VIEWED BY THOUSANDS. The Court of Ronor Bluminated for

The magnificent Court of Honor, ex-ending from Fifteenth Street to Seven centh Street on Pennsylvania Avenue time, and the brilliancy of the scene pro inaugural Committee. The Blumination inangural Committee. The illumination was in the nature of a test, and so well satisfied were Chairman Edson and other members of the committee that it is probable that an order will be issued today directing the illumination of the court tonight for several hours, and each nucceeding night up to and including Wednesday night. The President viewed the splendid scene from the White House whidows and expressed great satisfaction with its appearance.

nessiny night. The President viewed the spiendid scene from the White House windows and expressed great satisfaction with its appearance.

The beauty of the court far exceeds that of any previous inauguration, and one of the chief reasons for this fact is that an unoistracted view of both the White House and Lafayete Square are to be obtained from Pennsylvania Avenue. Heretofore stands have been erected directly in front of the Executive Mansion and opposite, fronting on the park, but this time, acting upon the suggestion of Chairman Edson, the stands have been erected in front of the Exceutive Mansion and State. War and Navy buildings. The President's reviewing stand is in front of the northwest section of the White House Grounds, west of the west gate and across Executive Avenue.

The great white communs, thirty-eight in number, which extend along the north side of the court and about the drive through the grounds of the mansion, are mounted with a sphere upon which are forty-five incandescent bulbs and below these on each column is a crown of fifteen incandescent lamps. All of these were lighted for about an bour last night and the effect was highly satisfactory. Each of the eight pylons is surmeunted with a large vase of asbestos, and on the nights of the great feles it is planned to harra a non-illuminating powder which emits a steady smoke. In the interior of each pylons is a 1908-candile power projector and five screens last night and showed that the effect would be both novel and beautiful. Hundreds of electric lights string along the reviewing stands added brilliancy to the scene and added much to the spectacular effect. Thousands of people passed through the court last night during the time it was filminated and viewed with wonder and admiration the gorgeous display of light and color.

Fell From a Street Car.

While attempting to alight from a Brightwood car at the corner of Bright od and Howard Avenues northwest Herman Wardig, fifty years old, fell and was badly injured about the face and was buy hopes about no freedmen's Hos-pital, where his injuries were dressed, after which he was sent home. The car was in charge of Lewis W. Weller, con-ductor, and T. C. Davis, motorman.
